Role-Associate AML/KYC

1.Tell me about yourself.
I'm a commerce graduate with experience in financial operations and process handling. In my previous role, I was involved in managing reconciliations and ensuring accurate transaction processing. I've developed strong attention to detail and stakeholder coordination skills. I'm now looking for an opportunity where I can deepen my understanding of financial processes and grow within a structured banking environment.

2.Walk me through your resume.
I completed my graduation in commerce, where I developed a strong foundation in finance and accounting. After that, I joined ___ as a ___, where I handled transaction processing and reconciliations. My role involved verifying trade details, ensuring settlement accuracy, and coordinating with internal teams for discrepancy resolution. Over time, I gained experience in compliance checks and client communication, which strengthened my process understanding and problem-solving skills.

3.What exactly were your responsibilities in your previous role?
My primary responsibility was to process and reconcile daily transactions. I ensured all entries matched system records, investigated mismatches, and escalated issues when required. I also prepared daily reports and maintained documentation for audit purposes.

4.Why should we hire you?
I bring process clarity, attention to detail, and compliance awareness. Since I already have experience in financial operations and understand the importance of accuracy and timelines, I believe I can quickly adapt and add value to your team.

5.Can you describe a challenge you faced?
Once, there was a reconciliation mismatch due to incorrect data entry from an upstream team. I identified the discrepancy during review, coordinated with the concerned team, and corrected the records before settlement. This prevented a potential reporting error.

6. What tools or systems were you working on daily?
In my previous role, I primarily worked on Excel for data validation and reporting. I also used internal transaction processing systems to verify trade details and update case statuses. For compliance checks, we used screening tools to validate customer names against sanctions lists.

7.You've mentioned ___ skill here — can you explain how you used it practically?
Yes, in my previous role, attention to detail was very important because I was handling transaction data. While performing reconciliations, I had to carefully match trade details like amount, date, and client ID across systems. Once, I noticed a small mismatch in currency value that could have led to reporting errors. I escalated it immediately and got it corrected before settlement. That's how I practically applied attention to detail in my daily work.
